Client: Mad Greek Racing
Type: Grassroots racing team
About: Mad Greek Racing is a family operated endurance racing team based in the Pacific Northwest. Known for its gritty DIY ethos and performance obsession, the team builds and races custom vehicles and shares their stories with a growing online audience.
We also sell merchandise to fuel the fun.

I designed and developed MadGreekRacing.com as a gift and digital home base for my dad's racing team. The site includes:
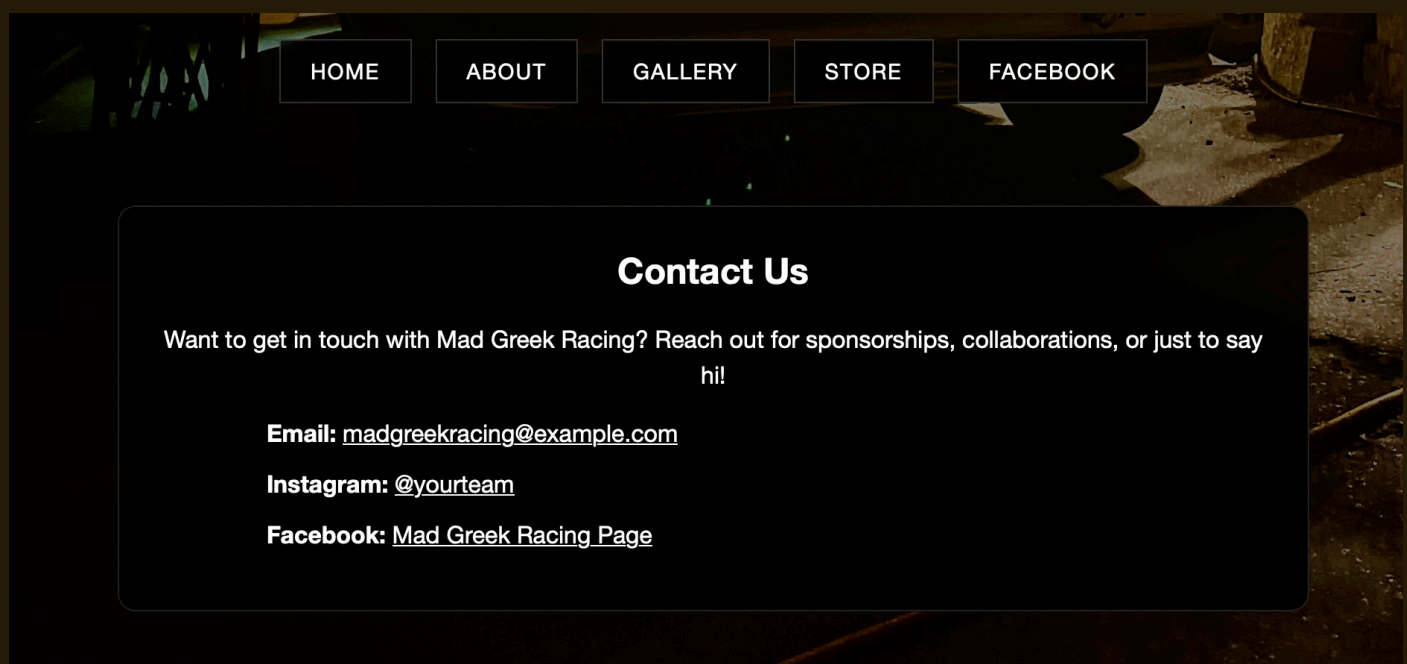

A bold homepage that captures the brand vibe:

An about section to tell the story behind the cars and the name

Mad Greek Racing is a budget endurance racing team built around a BMW E46 wagon and a committed crew that lives for the track. Running #46, we prove that passion and dedication can turn a modest wagon into a competitive force.

A Merch Store for products to support the team!

All code for MadGreekRacing.com was hand-built using HTML, CSS, and custom JavaScript. I handled everything from branding and layout to asset creation and responsive testing. The result is a fully functional, story driven site that reflects the grit and personality of the team.

I logged 28 hours total, slightly over my estimate of 25, including design, development, and testing. While unpaid, this was the kind of work I love; personal, and hands-on, making something with love.
It's a strong addition to my portfolio and exactly the type of client I'd want again.

Love you dad!
